

William Malcolm works with Google's product and engineering teams globally on a range of product design and privacy compliance issues. Prior to joining Google in March 2011, Malcolm was a leading member of the Pinsent Masons Privacy and Information Law Practice, where he advised a range of clients on privacy programme management and day-to-day compliance and commercial privacy issues.

Malcolm is a frequent speaker at conferences and industry events on EU privacy issues.